Geopolitics and the macro-economy continue to create turbulent waters. While some of our companies are being affected by swirls and eddies, most are flowing along just fine. We don't mean to be flippant. We take the current environment very seriously and recognize how negative an impact world events could have on all of our names. In recent conversations with our companies, most of them are managing their respective challenges very well. As with crises in the past (the tech crash and bear market of 2000 to 2002; the financial crisis of 2008-2009; the Covid pandemic of 2019 to present and now the overlay of the Ukraine war) we are constantly thinking about how our companies' valuations are being impacted by factors within and outside of their control. Though a few of our names may stumble further that I am anticipating, most look to get through this crisis in excellent shape. As with crises past, it has always paid to stay patient.

Wutherich & Co. Factsheet

Company Objective

Our goal is to seek prosperity for our clients through participation in stable, growing companies in North America, led by strong management teams that we consider our partners for the next five or more years.

Investment Philosophy

Our style can be described as concentrated, disciplined, long-term growth stock investing. The focus is on established companies that generally have a demonstrated track record in revenue, cash flow or earnings per share growth, with strong managements and solid balance sheets. The current emphasis in the portfolio is on the equity of small to medium capitalization companies, defined roughly as $50 million to $5 billion in market capitalization. The portfolio may include large capitalization companies if the right elements are there. Stocks are bought with a keen eye to valuation, so you're not likely to find many high multiple stocks here. The portfolio will likely maintain a significant percentage in foreign securities, providing exposure to investment returns outside of Canada.

*The Wutherich & Co. performance shown here (using the Time Weighted Rate of Return method) is of a composite which combines the performance of all of the accounts managed by Wutherich & Co. that have been invested according to the Wutherich & Co. Portfolio throughout their history. These accounts vary greatly in the size of assets that they contain and whether or not fees have been deducted directly from the accounts during their history.
