Monthly Message

The Wutherich & Co. Composite was up 3.9% in January. This compares with the S&P/TSX being up 7.4%.

As goes January, so goes the year? We certainly hope so, though we think there are an awful lot of hurdles to jump to make this happen. For the market as a whole, January saw a snap-back in some of the names that were the weakest in 2022. I am not sure that weakness is a sound investment reason to own a stock. We look at the long-term fundamentals of each of the names that we own and decide to buy or sell them accordingly. The only reason that we would buy a name whose stock price has dropped over the last year is that we think it now offers better value relative to its long-term outlook.

Overall, the portfolio seems very cheap to us. Yes, all the macro-economic hurdles that have to be jumped will affect our companies. Regardless, we think that they are well positioned to grow for many years to come, hurdles or not. This should drive good long-term returns.

This is RRSP season. We strongly encourage our clients to make contributions to their accounts as soon as possible.

Wutherich & Co. Factsheet

Company Objective

Our goal is to seek prosperity for our clients through participation in stable, growing companies in North America, led by strong management teams that we consider our partners for the next five or more years.

Investment Philosophy

Our style can be described as concentrated, disciplined, long-term growth stock investing. The focus is on established companies that generally have a demonstrated track record in revenue, cash flow or earnings per share growth, with strong managements and solid balance sheets. The current emphasis in the portfolio is on the equity of small to medium capitalization companies, defined roughly as $50 million to $5 billion in market capitalization. The portfolio may include large capitalization companies if the right elements are there. Stocks are bought with a keen eye to valuation, so you're not likely to find many high multiple stocks here. The portfolio will likely maintain a significant percentage in foreign securities, providing exposure to investment returns outside of Canada.

*The Wutherich & Co. performance shown here (using the Time Weighted Rate of Return method) is of a composite which combines the performance of all of the accounts managed by Wutherich & Co. that have been invested according to the Wutherich & Co. Portfolio throughout their history. These accounts vary greatly in the size of assets that they contain and whether or not fees have been deducted directly from the accounts during their history.
